STOMACH MISERY FOR OVER SIX YEARS.

Think of it! After six years of sour stomach, of gas eructations, of nervousness, during which time every meal lay on his stomach like a lump of lead, a man was restored to perfect health by Mi-o-na stomach tablets. Read what Mr. Hoffman, landlord of the Webster Hotel, writes:

"I suffered misery and intense pains from stomach trouble for over six years, and all the doctoring that I did or medicines I used were of no avail until about two years ago, when I used a treatment of Mi-o-na. The first few days' treatment helped me greatly and upon using it a while I was made entirely free from any stomach trouble or complaint whatever. Since the cure by Mi-o-na I have regained my weight, I eat and sleep well, am never nervous, and my entire general health is much better."—Max M. Hoffman, Webster, N. Y., Aug. 2, 1909.

Mi-o-na relieves stomach distress in five minutes. It acts like magic. It is guaranteed to cure sour stomach, gas eructations, heartburn, dizziness, biliousness and nervousness, or money back. For sale by druggists everywhere and by E. J. Jenkins for 50 cents a large box.

FROM PALACIOS BY THE SEA.

A Brazos County Man Tells of the Beauty of This South Texas City.

Palacios, Texas, Feb. 20, 1910.

Dear Mr. Editor and the Many Readers of The Eagle:

We often read letters from West Texas, Northwest Texas, East Texas, and various other places, but I don't remember ever seeing a letter from South Texas; therefore I take the liberty to tell you a few things of this Sunning South land, and "The Beautiful City by the Sea."

I have been here only three months, but have had the benefit of the winter season. We have had ice three times and the wind blew very hard, but it was not nearly so severe as we have in Brazos county even, much less farther north. The sun shines so warm and the breeze from the gulf tempers the climate so much when a norther does come it is soon overcome by these two effects.

The vegetables are growing as though no norther ever reached here. Cabbage, beets, cauliflowers, lettuce and peas, together with many more I might name, are as fine as I ever saw, all being marketed now except the peas and the reason these vegetables and other things are being grown to such a success in a great measure, is on the account of irrigation, with this pure soft artesian water, which is as pure as ever flowed from this mother earth, that can be had at a depth of only about four hundred feet. Now Palacios is situated in the extreme southern part of Matagorda county on Palacios Bay. Our population numbers only between 22 and 25 hundred, consisting mainly of northern people. She has her oyster house, bathing pavilions, one small cotton gin, electric light plant. Ice factory, Palacios Baptist college; only three churches (but others in view), one railroad and hoping another soon, besides the business town. Six new brick buildings that are now on foot, that are to be business houses, besides the dwellings that are going up in every shape and style and in every direction.

Another thing I was about to leave out the B. Y. P. U. grounds which are very attractive.

Now, as to the country, and lands, I have not been out very much nor no great distance, though what I have seen look as if though it would grow anything that man would attempt and cultivate. There are some lands that are loamy while others are black and sticky, and as the old saying is, If you stick to it in dry weather it will sure stick to you in wet weather, and of course lands and town property are growing in value the same as population.

I was glad, indeed, to read the many columns in The Eagle of the great revival meeting of Bryan, and extend to you that were converted during that meeting a hand of Christian fellowship and wishing you God-speed in your new field of labor for the Master. That is one thing I can boast of for Palacios—it is as much a Christianized town as I was ever in.

Fearing, dear readers, that my letter may seem a little lengthy, I will close, wishing The Eagle's many readers a successful year and hoping to be able to write you something more of our southern country in the near future, I remain,

Yours sincerely,
J. A. TOBIAS,
Palacios, Texas.

They promise the ladies of this vicinity the newest and prettiest styles in millinery this season they have ever shown.

JAPANESE ENGLISH.

A Sample Circular Composed by a Native Tradesman.

There comes from a correspondent in Japan this example of circulars in English that Japanese tradesmen sometimes compose:

"Dear Sir—I have the honour to write a letter for you that I have now established the meat market and its branch to deliver the meat as one of the branch of my slaughter house, as which I have many cattle, their pastures, their markets, milk houses, and a slaughter house, etc., and I will have a fresh meat with the most cheapest price from my slaughter house than other butchery and especially make you many reduction for every day purchaser for month. I beg you can soon make me your order without your servant's commission, as you know your servant is always making money by your meat." I will make you the pass-book for the creditor only.

"P. S.—If you handed bad meat from your servant while you are making purchases the meat from my market every day, you will soon to let it exchange by the servant without any hesitation. Please make me your order, and if you can make me order by letter I will have the postage reduction from the count of meat with kind regards. Your truly."—Boston Transcript.

Queer Old Australian Tradition About the Flood.

The aboriginal blacks of Australia have a queer tradition about the flood. They say that at one time there was no water on the earth at all except in the body of an immense frog, where men and women could not get at it. There was a great council on the subject, and it was found out that if the frog could be made to laugh the waters would run out of his mouth and the drought be ended.

So several animals were made to dance and caper before the frog to induce him to laugh, but he did not even smile, and so the waters remained in his body. Then some one happened to think of the queer contortions into which the eel could twist itself, and it was straightway brought before the frog, and when the frog saw the wriggling he laughed so loud that the whole earth trembled, and the waters poured out of his mouth in a great flood, in which many people were drowned.

The black people were saved from drowning by the pelican. This thoughtful bird made a big canoe and went with it among all the islands that appeared here and there above the surface of the water and gathered in the black people and saved them.

KILL

Methods of a mongoose in attacking the Big Snake.

I had the good fortune to witness a fight between a four foot cobra de capello and a mongoose.

On first catching sight of the cobra, rikki tik tas Rudyard Kipling calls the Indian mongoose quietly smelled its tail and then hung around awaiting events with curiosity, but he had not long to wait, for the cobra spread its hood, hissed out its death sentence and prepared to dart from its coil at its natural and hated enemy.

Now commenced a most interesting and deadly battle of feint and counter feint by the mongoose and strike and lightning-like recovery by his adversary, who was also on the defensive, all the time watching for the opportunity to get in his properly aimed bite.

Time after time rikki tik squirmed slowly up to within reach of those terrible fangs, belly on ground, with every gray hair of his body erect with anger and excitement, his eyes glaring from his head, which, by the way, he invariably held sideways during this approach and attack, but the moment the cobra struck in a flash back sprang master mongoose, and, although often it appeared as if impossible that he could have escaped the dreaded fangs, ne'er a scratch harmed him, and there he would be again wearing the cobra out and pressing his advantage inch by inch. At last, with a growl and sharp rikki tik cry, the plucky little beast flew in, avoided the strike and seized the snake behind the head, never for a moment getting under his mouth, but right at the nape of the neck and head, which he scrunched with a loud cracking sound despite the struggles and twisting and turning of the cobra. Again and again rikki tik returned to the now writhing reptile and bit its head and body until it lay dying.

Finally he ate three or four inches of his mortal foe, but carefully avoided eating the fangs and poison glands, which I picked up by a stick and found them broken, but with the venom sacs attached.

Contrary to popular belief, I am of opinion the mongoose is not immune from snake poison, else why should he so particularly and carefully avoid being bitten? It is only by his marvelous activity that he escapes the spring and darting strike of his deadly enemy, the cobra de capello.—Ceylon Times.
